

Legal Basics:

Marsy's Law in Ohio

April 17

12 – 1 p.m.

1.0 Hour of New Lawyer Training Credit (pending)

PROGRAM

From its original passage as a constitutional amendment to its enactment as part of the Ohio Revised Code, Marsy's Law has been a source of confusion and controversy. Jack Greiner, a long-time advocate for public transparency, will discuss the impact of the implications of Marsy's Law with particular emphasis on R.C. §2930.07, which controls the privacy of victim information.

PRESENTER

John C. "Jack" Greiner, Esq., Faruki PLL

Jack is the area's leading authority on media law and First Amendment matters. He has represented clients in public records disputes, access to courts, open meeting cases and a variety of defamation cases. Jack is also an experienced commercial litigator, handling contract disputes for clients in state and federal courts in Ohio and elsewhere. Jack earned his BS in political science/economics from Miami University and his JD from the University of Notre Dame Law School.
